PROFILE

With over 10 years of experience as an account manager, I have worked with and supported people from all walks of life. During this time, I built a reputation for having a solid work ethic and a curiosity that drives me to delve into the details of problems to find creative solutions.

This year, I decided to follow my passion for technology and transition into a new career, enrolling in Dev Academy's Software Development Bootcamp, a rigorous and immersive programme. Now, I'm excited to combine my account management experience with my technical skills in a fresh role.

I'm currently developing a full stack hiking app. This project allows me to apply and expand my skills in web development, while creating a useful tool that provides detailed trail information, event coordination, and community engagement features. It's a practical application of my technical abilities, showcasing my problem-solving skills and commitment to continuous learning. And a good excuse to spend time planning future hikes!

SKILLS

- Frontend: React, JavaScript, TypeScript, Next.js, HTML/CSS, Tailwind CSS, Vite

PROJECTS

- Trail Keeper App (currently developing)

A web app designed for hikers to share and access trail information, join events, participate in forums, and utilise training modules. Features user management, real-time trail reports, event creation, and volunteer coordination.

Built with: React, Typescript, Node.js, PostgreSQL, Tailwind CSS, Axios, and Nodemon.

- Community Garden App

A full-stack Next.js application designed to help community garden organisers and members manage garden plots. It includes features for viewing available plots and adding new plots to the database. with Google Maps integration for plotting garden locations and converting latitude and longitude.

Built with: Next.js, TypeScript, Prisma, SQLite database and Google Maps.

- Boilerplate React

A boilerplate full-stack application setup, created for future projects, including API endpoints with fetch and Superagent, React components, an example database module with seeds and migrations, and configurations for various development tools.

Built with: TypeScript, Knex, SQLite, Express and React.
